Lea Durante

Lea Durante teaches History of Criticism and of Literary Historiography at the University of Bari in the “heel” of Italy. She is vice-president of the Italian section of International Gramsci Society and a member of the IGS’s secretariat at world level. As well as her Gramsci work, she has written on the twentieth-century novel and literary theory and criticism.

Joseph Francese

Joseph Francese è ordinario di letteratura italiana e University Distinguished Faculty benemerito alla Michigan State University (USA). Ha al suo attivo numerosi articoli e saggi su scrittori ed intellettuali italiani moderni e contemporanei. Nel 2009 ha curato per la Routledge Perspectives on Gramsci: Culture, Politics, and Social Theory.

Fabio Frosini

Fabio Frosini teaches History of Philosophy and History of Political Theory at the University of Urbino in central Italy. Apart from figures in these fields, his work on Gramsci is wide-ranging, covering many key concepts encountered in the prison writings in particular, and also encompasses a role on the National Edition of Gramsci’s Writings. His contributions include, in Italy, various publications in the International Gramsci Society series of volumes.

Nerio Naldi

Nerio Naldi is Associate Professor of Political Economy at the Sapienza-Università di Roma. He has made a special study of the theory of value in Adam Smith and his forerunners and of investment analysis in Keynes. He has worked on Gramsci and on the close personal and intellectual relationship between him and Piero Sraffa. He has researched the work and biography of the latter and is on the advisory board of the Centro Sraffa Working Papers.
